GENTLEMEN:

I was interested in WEBSTER'S "EFFECTIVE ENGLISH EXPRESSION"; for one reason, I know something of his successful work in Springfield. I am not in the habit of expressing a personal opinion concerning textbooks, but if my comment in this instance is of any use to you, you are welcome to it.

It seems to me that WEBSTER'S "EFFECTIVE ENGLISH EXPRESSION," with its accompanying excellent manual, is clearly the work of an experienced high school instructor who has plotted a sane and satisfying method by which effective English may be both learned and taught. I am impressed by the sound knowledge of psychology displayed in the book, the absence of fantastic theory, and the interesting quality of the material for illustration and study. The textbook and manual should hearten many a high school teacher who is responsible for the teaching of a most difficult subject.

Very truly yours,

A. M. PEACH

Professor of English

MODERN BOOKS FOR SCHOOLS

Poems of the War and the Peace

Edited by Sterling A. Leonard, Wisconsin University.

Ninety poems by Brooke, Edith Wharton, Gibson, Sassoon, Seeger, Kilmer, Frost and forty other poets. A book of spirit and ideals, not a glorification of war. 80 cents

Modern American Poetry (enlarged edition)

Edited by Louis Untermeyer.

More than 275 poems by ninety-eight authors, from Emily Dickinson to Hilda Conkling. Explanatory and biographical notes and an illuminating introduction make this the most comprehensive volume of modern American verse available. $1.00

Modern British Poetry

Edited by Louis Untermeyer

A companion volume to Modern American Poetry covering the same period. $1.00

1-Act Plays by Modern Authors

Edited by Dr. Helen Louise Cohen, Washington Irving High School, New York City.

Plays by Tarkington, MacKaye, Milne, Lady Gregory, Synge, Lord Dunsany, Maeterlinck, Galsworthy, and eight others. Introduction which deals with the workmanship of the one-act play, the Little Theatre movement, and play presentation in schools. $1.60

Americans All

Edited by Benjamin A. Heydrick, High School of Commerce, New York City.

Fourteen modern American short stories, depicting as many phases of our national life, by such authors as Dorothy Canfield, William Allen White, Edna Ferber, O. Henry, Brand Whitlock, Myra Kelly. $1.00

Modern American Prose Selections

Edited by Byron J. Rees, late of Williams College

Twenty papers of range and distinction, exemplifying the modern essay in its various guises—educational, critical, biographical, political, descriptive, whimsical—by American statesmen, educators, critics, authors and business men. $1.00

Landmarks of Liberty

Edited by Robert P. St. John and Raymond Noonan, Commercial High School, Brooklyn.

A collection of documents and addresses that mark the pathway of American history from James Otis to Woodrow Wilson. Suitable for either English or Civics classes. 80 cents

Melville's "Typee,"

Edited for school use by Sterling A. Leonard, Wisconsin University.

The best yarn of an American story-teller who is rapidly regaining the recognition he possessed when Stevenson called him "first and greatest" of the writers who concerned themselves with the South Seas. 84 cents

English Literature

By John L. Haney, Central High School, Philadelphia.

A brief, informal book that sets forth, with abundant illustrations the chief facts in the history of English letters, from Beowulf to Barrie. Comments from the many schools in which Dr. Haney's book is used are unanimous in proclaiming it the best means available to lure the pupil to further reading on his own account. 167 illustrations. $1.60

American Literature

By Thomas E. Rankin, University of Michigan, and Wiford M. Aikin, director of the Scarborough School, Scarborough-on-Hudson.

The fascinating story of the accomplishments of American writers from before the days of the Pilgrim Fathers far into the year 1921. Similar in purpose and plan to Dr. Haney's English Literature. 100 illustrations. $1.60

The English of Business

By Franklyn B. Snyder and Ronald S. Crane, both of Northwestern University.

A brief text and practice-book on the correct and effective use of English in all forms of business practice, with special attention to business letters and the preparation of reports. $1.10

Essentials of English Grammar

By Elsie G. Merrill, formerly of the Boys' Latin School, Baltimore, and the Vail-Deane School, Elizabeth, N. J.

Only the indispensable facts of grammar—definite rules, numerous examples and exercises, and an especially notable treatment of English derivatives from the Latin. 96 cents.

Seven Stories by Hawthorne

Edited by Carl Van Doren, Literary Editor of The Nation.

A representative group, comprising The Maypole of Merry Mount, Young Goodman Brown, Ethan Brand, Rappaccini's Daughter, The Great Stone Face, The Seven Vagabonds, and Mr. Higginbotham's Catastrophe. Also Sources from the American Note Books.

One Teacher's Experience

After using THE CENTURY HANDBOOK OF WRITING, by Greever & Jones, for two years, this fall a middle western high school of approximately fifteen hundred pupils introduced another book. In less than two months the head of the English Department was so generous as to write us the following letter:

*The Century Co.,

October 22, 1921.

Gentlemen:

That was a very understanding letter you wrote me ten days ago, except perhaps that you did not sympathize with me fully enough for changing from The Century Handbook of Writing to another text.

I'm sorry I did it.

I shall come back to it again next year.

The explanation of this teacher's experience lies in the fact that The Century Handbook excels all similar manuals in its general usefulness and adaptability to different requirements.

The authors have reduced the essential matters of grammar, diction, spelling, mechanics, and the development of sentence structure, to one hundred articles. These articles are arranged on a decimal plan of utmost simplicity, and are summarized on two opposite pages by a chart. Through this chart the material is made accessible for instant reference.

Each article begins with a concise rule, which is illustrated with examples. Then follows a parallel exercise. The instructor can assign a rule by writing its number on the margin of the theme, and by adding an "x" to this number he can assign the accompanying exercises.

The value of The Century Handbook is indicated by its wide use. It has been adopted by hundreds of high schools the country over and in such cities as

New York City, N.Y.
Chattanooga, Tenn.
St. Paul, Minn.
Portland, Ore.
Louisville, Ky.
Washington, D.C.

Philadelphia, Pa.
Richmond, Va.
Tacoma, Wash.
Omaha, Neb.
Oakland, Cal.
Madison, Wis.

San Francisco, Cal.
Boston, Mass.
Minneapolis, Minn.
Detroit, Mich.
Cleveland, O.
St. Louis, Mo.

Write for leaflet which shows how through the use of this book your theme correction work can be greatly lightened.

The Macmillan Pocket Classics Series

includes over 170 volumes suitable for classroom, reading circle, or library. Among the titles in the Series will be found the masterpieces of the language.

The text of each classic has received special attention, and the editorship is marked by sound scholarship and judgment. The notes are suggestive and helpful without being obtrusive.

Since it includes practically all of the titles recently recommended by the College Entrance Board in its comprehensive list, this is undoubtedly the most complete and satisfactory series of classics for schools now available.

The price, which is uniform for all volumes, is likewise the lowest average price at which the schools can purchase such classics in modern editions, well-edited and bound.
